FUND OBJECTIVE

To achieve capital appreciation by implementing an alpha-driven investment process focusing on IPOs.

PRIMARY GOALS & KEY REASONS TO INVEST

IPO Exposure: The Fund offers exposure to IPOs through two distinct strategies, including exclusive mutual fund access to the IPOX U.S. 100 Index through the Core Long Component.

Disciplined Strategy: The investment process utilizes quantitative models to rank and select IPOs.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The fund invests in common stocks of companies listed on the IPOX U.S. 100 Index and newly listed public offerings of U.S. companies. The stocks may be purchased at the time of the offering or in post-IPO trading ("IPOs"). The fund's portfolio has two components: the Core Long Component and the Dynamic Component, each utilizing a distinct investment strategy.

- Core Long Component: invests assets so as to replicate the IPOX U.S. 100 Index, which includes the largest IPOs and companies with a substantial increase in value since their floatation.
- Dynamic Component: invests assets in approximately 30-70 IPOs that are not included in the Core Long Component that are valued attractively relative to their price to sales multiple. Companies eligible for investment enter on the date of their initial public offering and exit one month thereafter.

The fund may continue to add to any existing position after the one month period has ended.

The Catalyst IPOx Allocation Fund implements a distinct strategy that seeks to provide investors with the potential excess returns from investing in IPOs.

IPOX U.S. 100 Total Return Index Performance: Ending September 30, 2018 (Not Fund Performance)

The fund's Core Long Component seeks to replicate the IPOX U.S. 100 TR Index (published 8/6/2004), which measures the performance of the top 100 companies ranked quarterly by market capitalization in the IPOX U.S. Composite Index. Investors cannot invest in an index and unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charges. The Fund is new and does not have performance history.
