How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

The Fund seeks long-term capital appreciation through an all-season strategy that seeks to generate absolute returns through risk-balanced exposure across equity, fixed income, commodity, and currency markets. The Fund offers access to the BNP Paribas Catalyst Systematic Alpha Index II (the "BNPP CASA Index II"), which is designed to provide exposure to strategies that are not typically accessible through traditional investment products or asset classes.

Performance

During the reporting period, the Fund outperformed its underlying benchmark index, the BNP CASA Index II, which the Fund tracks. The outperformance was the result of the Fund's cash management component of the strategy, which allowed the Fund to generate additional returns.

The market fundamentals for the reporting period worked in our favor to help spur solid performance. In the reporting period, we saw positive trends develop in equity markets domestically, in Europe, and in Japan. Given the trend-following nature of some of the underlying components, well-developed, sustained trends in either direction allow the Fund to take advantage through momentum investing by allocating to recent outperformers and less to recent underperformers. Furthermore, we saw the Chicago Board Options Exchange Volatility Index (VIX Index) remain well below the historic average during most of the fiscal year. Commodity markets have been relatively stable, with some commodities exhibiting strong price momentum, and Gold hitting an all-time high. Finally, currencies have been performing well, specifically on the back of the strength of the U.S. Dollar.
